

Jan 3, 5, 6, & 21st, 2019

Call for entries: Create Art for the 9th annual SLO Jewish Film Festival

THE FESTIVAL:

The 9th annual San Luis Obispo Jewish Film Festival (SLOJFF) takes place January 3, 5, 6 & 21st, 2019, at the Palm Theatre, and at Congregation Beth David on January 21st as part of the Martin Luther King Day community celebration. Six films will be shown and there will also be receptions and awards ceremonies. The theme of the SLOJFF is CELEBRATING CULTURAL DIVERSITY through documentary and narrative (story telling) films, with a balance between humor and drama.

Ultimately, the goal is to provide two days of entertaining and enlightening experiences for the 1000+ people expected to attend.

INVITATION

We invite you, the young artist, to create an image reflecting the festival theme, cultural diversity. This image will be featured on note cards and on other merchandise and sold at all film showings, ceremonies and receptions.

WHAT IS CULTURAL DIVERSITY

The quality of diverse cultures where differences among people is respected and accepted as the common heritage of humanity.

Film is an art which can explore these differences by telling stories and documenting history. Themes include family life, heroes, political controversy and collaboration on understanding today's issues and conflicts. The characters in film can uncover our similarities and differences through comedy and tragedy.

COMPETITION GUIDELINES:

Open to all young artists, submissions shall not exceed 8 1/2" X 8 1/2", must reflect the theme, Celebrating Cultural Diversity. Use any media, and can be black and white or color (two color graphics are encouraged, but multi-color acceptable) Students can work as individuals or teams.

Entries are to be anonymous, with artist name and contact phone number in sealed envelope taped to back. Two entries maximum per artist, or team.

A panel from the festival committee will select a winner(s).
